Dr. G. W. Dyer Is to Address C. C. Annual Session

Noted Trade Speaker to Appear in Hope Monday Night, August 11

Dr. Gus W. Dyer, for 30 years professor of economics at Vanderbilt University, Nashville, Tenn., and now economic advisor to the Southern States Industrial Council of Nashville, will be the principal speaker at the annual meeting of the Hope Chamber of Commerce, to be held at the Experiment Farm, Monday night August 11, Guy E. Basye, retiring president, announced Wednesday.

To those who have heard Dr. Dyer, no further introduction is needed, but for those who have not had that privilege it is well to state that for many years he has been one of the most sought after speakers at national and regional trade association meetings, Mr. Basye said.

Dr. Dyer not only delivers a message with a punch but includes many jokes which help to carry his points and entertain as well as instruct his audiences.

Since the Southern States Industrial Council announced that he would be available to address the students and faculty members of universities and colleges this summer more than 80 invitations have been extended, about double the number of engagements he can accept while summer schools are in session.

Taking advantage of an open date in Dr. Dyer's schedule on August 11, Mr. Basye was able to get him to come to Hope en route from Texas to Alabama.

Program
The general public is invited and urged to hear Dr. Dyer. The program for the annual meeting is as follows:
Chicken barbecue dinner—7:00 p. m. for members and guests.
Annual meeting (public invited)—8:00 p. m.

Song (by all)—God Bless America.
Directed by E. P. Young.

Invocation—Dr. Brewster.
Report of Retiring President—Guy E. Basye.

Quarrel—Ted Jones, et al.
Address by Dr. Gus W. Dyer, Professor of Economics, Vanderbilt University, Nashville, Tenn.

Charge to Newly Elected Board of Directors—Rev. Kenneth Spore.
Benediction—Rev. Kenneth Spore.

County Given to Aug. 18 to Pay for Lights

City Establishes Health Regulations for Trailer Camps

The Hope city council passed three ordinances in a lengthy session Tuesday night and instructed City Engineer C. O. Thomas to cut off water and light at the Hempstead courthouse on August 18 if the bill is not paid by that time.

County officials had met in a special session with the city council last week and asked for some consideration on the water and light bills because funds appropriated for utilities have been exhausted. A sheriff's settlement to the county general fund showed a cash balance of only fifty cents.

Under the present rate setup the city voluntarily deducts $50 from the county utility bills each month. The county has asked additional aid.

The council Tuesday night passed an ordinance regulating the establishment of trailer camps in the city of Hope, requiring owners of such camps to obtain a permit to operate. Certain rules and regulations as provided in the ordinance must be met.

The ordinance was passed over the protest of several citizens who filed a petition with the council asking that Lee Hartsfield not be granted permission to operate a trailer camp on East Third street near the Brookwood school.

Under the ordinance Mr. Hartsfield will be granted permission to operate a camp if it meets requirements regarding health and toilet facilities.

An ordinance was passed to raise the salary of the clerk of the municipal court from $30 to $40 per month, a figure which is duplicated by the county, making a total salary of $20 per month for a salary of $40.

Electric Inspection
A third ordinance was passed fixing a license fee of $25 for electricians to operate in Hope, and also creating the position of a master electrician to make inspections of electrical wiring on new buildings erected. The master electrician is to be appointed by the mayor with council's approval. No salary was fixed.

Provisions of the ordinance called for all wiring in the city to be inspected by the master electrician and provided certain specifications. The inspection fee will be $1 per inspection. All electricians would also have to pass an examination.

Bids to purchase a motor patrol grader for the city street department were turned over to the street committee.

The resignation of E. S. Greening as assessor for Street Improvement District No. 7 and Curby and Gutter District No. 3 were accepted. John P. Cox was appointed to succeed Mr. Greening.

A meeting of the Civilian Military Council was held at the Court House Tuesday night, to hear the reports and progress made by each of the 13 committees appointed at last meeting.

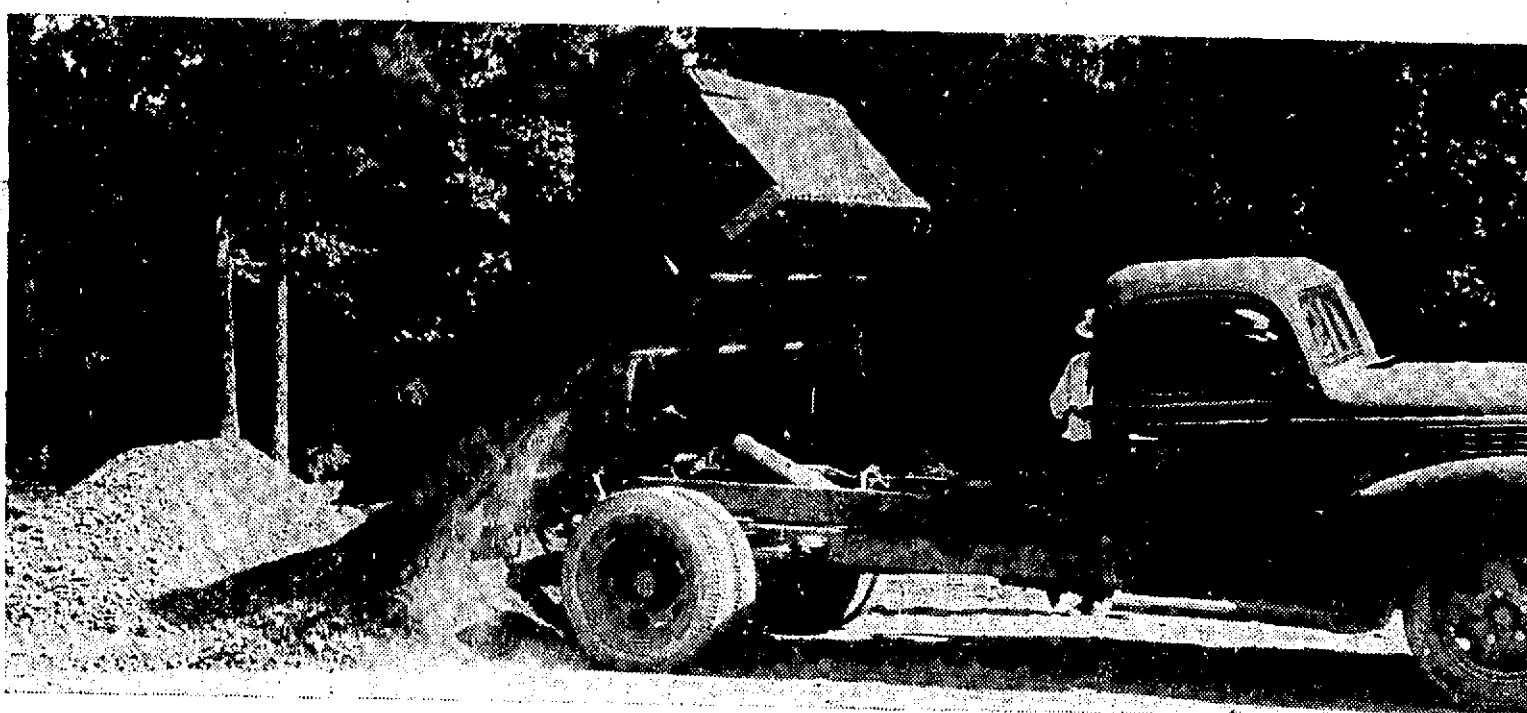

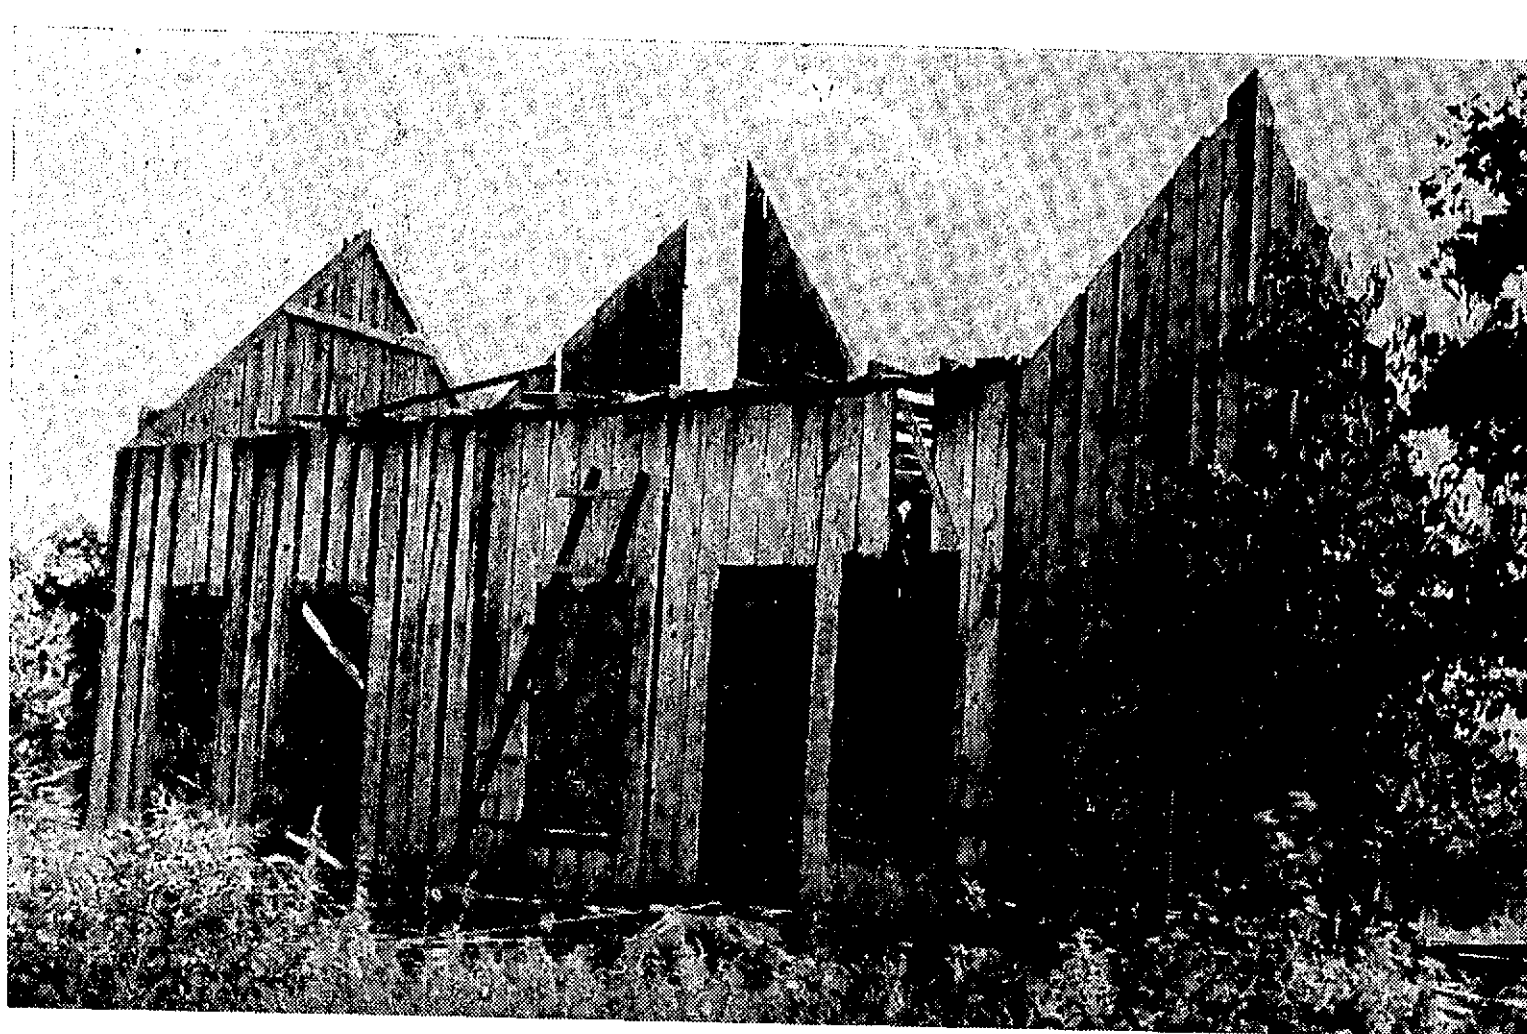

Mr. Talbot Field, Jr., General Chairman, presided. Minutes of last meeting were read by Mrs. Morsani, Secretary. The following committee reports were reported:

Committee for securing building or space for setting up "Soldiers Service Center"—Mr. Terrell Cornelius reported that no building in Hope was available at this time, but said it seemed the problem of bath or showers for the soldiers, was even more of a concern, and further stated that the Stock Building and Dairy Building at the Fair Park could be worked up nicely, with a little expense for temporary showers for the soldiers—the stated that some of the boys would probably be from five to seven days without the convenience of a bath, living in pup tents on canned rations. Mr. Stubbeman mentioned the Exhibition Building at the park as much larger and Mr. Stubbeman and Cornelius volunteered to see Mayor Graves about the cleaning up and use of the building. Mr. Cornelius was authorized to contact the City Officials about the plumbing for showers, etc., and to go to work on same. It was suggested the committee also contact the Finance Committee.

It was announced that the American Legion would erect an information booth in the alcove of the Hope Furniture Store, on the corner of Main and 3rd street with maps, in-

One Killed, Three Injured in Truck Accident Near Hope

Kermit Dillard, Rosston, Instantly Killed as Trucks Sideswipe

Kermit Dillard, 26, of Rosston, was instantly killed and three other persons injured, one critically, when two trucks sideswiped about 8 o'clock Tuesday night about 4 miles southeast of Hope on highway number 4.

The injured are:

Harlan Grissom, Rosston, who suffered a crushed arm.

Norman Jarvis, Rosston, who suffered a brain concussion, and is reported to be in a critical condition.

Mrs. Harlan Grissom, Rosston, who suffered only minor injuries.

The injured were brought to Hope by a Herndon-Cornelius ambulance and Grissom was later carried to a Freeston hospital, after being treated here. Dillard's body was removed to Stamps late Tuesday night.

State Police sergeant Dillihunt and patrolmen Garrett and Faulkner investigated the accident.

Funeral services for Dillard will be held at Bluff Springs, near Rosston, Nevada county, at 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon.

He is survived by his widow, a small son, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Dillard of Rosston; 4 brothers, Hicks, Lewis, and Bunk Dillard of Rosston and Algie Dillard of Camden; four sisters, Mrs. George Fuller of Prescott, Mrs. H. Butler and Mrs. Hinton Martin, both of Bodewau and another sister in Louisiana.

4 Million Reds Are Destroyed

Mass Destruction Claimed by Germans in Russian Thrust

By the Associated Press
Destruction of 4 million Red army troops—killed, wounded and captured—was claimed by the Germans Wednesday but in a rapid fire series of bulletins the Nazi high command again made no specific report of new gains or the capture of important cities and the Russians said they were meeting new German threats in the Ukraine with counter attacks.

Dispatches from Moscow compared the Ukraine battles with those on the central Smolensk front of last week.

The Berlin radio proclaimed to the German people vast new slaughter of Russia's Red army with Hitler's field headquarters announcing the capture of 895,000 Russian prisoners and the destruction or capture of 13,145 armored cars and tanks, 10,388 guns and 9,082 planes.

3 Million Dead
DVB official German news agency, estimated the number of Soviet dead alone at 3 million.

Hitler's headquarters detailed what was described as lunges through the Soviet defense system as three points south of the Pinsk marshes and the south of Lake Peipus below Leninograd.

The German asserted that the bloody battle of Smolensk had ended in victory for the Nazis.

In the south the Nazi war review said German, Hungarian, and Slovak troops had smashed forward to the gates of Kiev, capital of the Ukraine.

"With this breakthrough, deep beyond the Stalin line," the communiqué went on "it became possible to turn southward in a broad front between the Dniester and Dnieper

Eden Asserts Move Threat to Singapore

Briton's Include U. S. in 'Would We Fight' Question

LONDON —(P)—Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden disclosed to the House of Commons Wednesday that Japan has been warned that her intervention in Thailand would give rise to a more serious situation between Britain and Japan.

Eden said Ambassador Robert Leslie Craigie had warned the Japanese foreign minister on July 31 of the danger of intervention in Thailand.

He said the British government had noted that the Japanese press was using the same kind of language regarding Thailand as employed before demands were made for bases in Indo-China.

As a result of Eden's declaration the question at once arose on many Briton's lips, "Will we fight if Japan goes into Thailand?"

Includes U. S.
By "we" the average Britain rightly or wrongly had both the U. S. and Britain in mind.

The extent of British and U. S. collaboration in the Far East may be settled this week.

There was no elaboration of the statement in dispatches received in London but unconfirmed reports have said Prime Minister Churchill might fly for a conference with President Roosevelt somewhere in Canada on the North Atlantic.

LONDON —(P)—Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden declared in the House of Commons Wednesday that "anything which threatens the integrity or security of Thailand would be of immediate interest to Britain."

He said the British were especially interested because a Japanese move into Thailand would be a threat to the security of Singapore, British Pacific stronghold.

"I hope these words may yet be heeded," Eden said.

Eden and Major Clement Attlee, government leaders in commons, spoke on all phases of the war from the Far East and Russia to the battle of the Atlantic and U. S. aid.

Churchill Absent
They pinch hit for Prime Minister Churchill who was absent. It was announced that Churchill could not take part in the debate because he was too busy with urgent matters of war.

"Every fresh forward move on the part of Japan, naturally, has resulted in bringing China and Britain closer and closer together," he said.

"That friendship will continue and I pray, will grow."

He added that men and material are pouring out to strengthen "our forces in the Middle East for the next plunge" and said these would strike blows for the independence of countries in the Middle East just as much as for Britain.

Interest in Liberty
Attlee said Japan's attention to Thailand bears resemblance to that which preceded incursion into China and the independent but parallel action of the U. S. reaffirmed the community of interest between Britain and the United States, where liberty is concerned.

U. S. Position Clear
WASHINGTON —(P)—Secretary of State Hull Wednesday said that Japanese intentions toward Thailand and the southwest Pacific were of "increasing concern to the U. S. government."

This government has made clear its vital interests and opposition to any moves of conquest in the Pacific or elsewhere, Hull said.

"A Japanese move into Thailand," Hull made clear, "would be considered a step menacing American security and endangering American territory in the Pacific."

FSA Builds "Roving" Camps to Eliminate Post-Boom "Ghost Towns"

By ELEANOR RAGSDALE

NEA Service Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON—Government trailer camps and pre-fabricated houses will be "Home, Sweet Home" to thousands of defense workers and their families before long. The Farm Security Administration, pioneer in the development of mobile migrant camps for seasonal farm laborers, is turning its talents to the solution of the defense housing problem. The FSA hopes to make sure that ending of the present emergency will leave no "ghost towns" near defense plants.

With $5,000,000 from the 1941 deficiency bill turned over to it by President Roosevelt to do the job, the FSA is building 2834 family trailers, 400 portable houses, and pre-fabricated dormitories which alone will house 5789 workers. Erie, Pa., Groton, Conn., and San Diego, Calif., are among the first of the 14 chosen localities already benefiting from the program.

At the time "Grapes of Wrath" made Americans migrant-conscious the FSA had already built several permanent camps in order to better the miserable lot of the "Shanty Town" migratory workers. These camps consisted of tents on stationary platforms grouped around buildings for showers, laundry, powder, etc. Today 35 of these so-called "standard" camps are in operation, mostly in Texas, Florida and California.

"Migratory" Migrant Camps

But the circus technique of pulling up stakes to follow the road got into FSA blood, and the forward-looking agency started work on some "migrating" migrant camps. A big truck containing complete laundry facilities, another with showers and lavatories, and still a third loaded with an electric power unit make up the nucleus of each roving camp. Portable platforms and tents go along in accompanying trucks, ready to be put up when a likely harvest area is reached.

The bulk of these tent communities roll up and down the Pacific Coast from California citrus orchards to the apple and wheat country of Oregon and Washington. Usually the schedule is so managed that each of the 33 caravans makes three moves per year.

Naturally the defense camps won't peregrinate as often as that. They'll stay put until permanent housing can absorb the abnormal influx of factory workers in a given area. Of course, if an industry is one that will be completely washed up after the defense emergency, trailer and portable homes may just grow roots and stay until the industry closes its doors. Then they can "fold the show" and move on to the next "stand" in some other hard-pressed community.

Resuming testimony before the House Banking Committee on price control bill Henderson said that the recent stoppage of silk production would not justify any increase of price of silk stockings on the shelves of retailers.

It was further announced that the American Legion would furnish barrels of drinking water and locate them at different corners to relieve the pressure on the drug stores, restaurants.

Committee to make available space for letter writing, reading, quiet games etc.—Mrs. Dr. Henry reported for Mr. Reynerson, chairman of the sub-committee, saying that the council room of the city hall would be equipped with tables, chairs and writing material, piano, and etc., and that Mr. Reynerson had secured subscriptions for papers from the boys' home states. Mrs. Henry was asked to see if they could also handle post cards and stamps.

Committee to contact Barber Shops—Mr. Southward, reported for Chairman Cliff Stewart, that they had agreed to stay open nights until 8 p. m. or longer if needed. It was suggested that uniform signs be printed to inform the soldiers of the hours, as other signs will also be needed, the chairman appointed Mr. Remond Young, chairman, of the sign committee.

Committee to caution restaurants, drug stores, and stands to stock up on soldiers needs—Mr. Henry Haynes, chairman, not present—no report.

Mayor Graves sent the report that the "men's" comfort station behind Robinson's store was two-thirds completed, and that one for colored men would be built upon its completion. Committee to make available recreation parks—Mr. Stubbeman reported that the Boy Scout's cabin and the Girl Scout's Cabin in the park could be used if proper supervision were provided, it was decided to let the officers have the use of them. Mrs. Leon Bundy volunteered to see further about the supervision of the cabins.

Reverend Spore sent the report that he had contacted all the largest churches in Hope and all agreed to open their doors to the soldiers—all understood that they have to have to give information and extend hospitality. Also said that he would meet with the Ministerial Alliance and discuss the subject further.

Shower facilities committee—Mr. Spragins, chairman, included in the report of the committee for securing building or space for setting up "Soldiers Service Center".

Committee for Parking and Traffic—Chief Haynie, chairman, sent word that he is working on this at the present.

Committee to provide long distance telephone booths—Mr. James Pilkinton, chairman, not present. Mrs. Leon Bundy stated that in Prescott, they were always lined up trying to put in telephone calls—the need of a number of outside booths in Hope was discussed, one suitable place suggested was on the side of the Henry Hotel.

Committee to provide checking facilities—Mrs. Dr. Crow, chairman, after some discussion, it was decided the checking stand would really not be necessary in Hope.

Committee to provide shoe shine service—Luther Holloman, chairman, not present.

Finance Committee, Mr. Stonequist, chairman, absent because of sickness. Mr. Ted Jones Vice-Chairman, reported that the committee would like to have an estimate of the amount needed, $500 was suggested as the likely figure.

Some of the soldiers already in Prescott were quoted as expressing their delight and surprise for the wonderful hospitality they are receiving in Arkansas, mentioning that in some states it was difficult to even meet a pleasant smile for the soldiers.

Meeting adjourned with the announcement by the General Chairman, Mr. Feild, that each committee do the work assigned and call him if needed.

STORIES IN STAMPS

Last Mutineer Made Pitcairn Model Colony

WHEN an American whaler visited Pitcairn Island in 1808, 19 years after the famous mutiny on the Bounty, sailors found only one white man, last of the adventurous crew that seized a ship, sailed it to a hidden Pacific island. He was John Adams, who had sailed on the Bounty as Alexander Smith. Adams and his home on Pitcairn are shown on the stamp above, one of the island's Bounty series of eight values.

Of the 15 men who had come to Pitcairn, in 1789, 12 had been murdered, one committed suicide and another died of asthma. Adams was the patriarch of the community of 35 women and children.

After the death of his last fellow mutineer, Adams began serious study of the Bible and Book of Prayer. He determined to make Pitcairn a model community, preached to women and children. When the islanders were discovered, their manner of living had changed and the fame of their piety spread throughout the world.

When a British warship visited the island in 1815, officers decided Adams' work had expiated his crimes. Adams wanted to return to England but colonists dissuaded him. He died in 1829.

ORDINANCE NO. 573

An Ordinance to Regulate Tents, Trailers, and Other Types of Portable Shelter, and to Require a Permit for the Operation of Any Trailer Court or Location on Which Tents, Trailers, or Other Types of Portable Shelter Are to Be Located; For the Better Protection of the Health and Safety of the Inhabitants of Hope, Arkansas; and For Other Purposes.

BE IT ORDAINED BY THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF HOPE, ARKANSAS:

SECTION 1: No person shall use, occupy or enjoy any tent, trailer, or other type of portable shelter in the City of Hope, Arkansas, except the same be located at a place permitted under this ordinance; and any tent, trailer, or other type of portable shelter found occupied at any place in the City of Hope, Arkansas, other than at a place permitted under this ordinance shall be seized and held and condemned and destroyed as a public nuisance and any person using, occupying or enjoying or found in any tent, trailer, or other type of portable shelter at any place other than one permitted under this ordinance shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be fined not less than TEN DOLLARS and not more than ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS, and may also be imprisoned for not more than thirty days, and each day or night of said violation shall constitute a separate offense.

SECTION 2: No person shall have or maintain any park or place for the location of any tent, trailer, or other type of portable shelter, or allow the same to be used on his premises or premises under his control anywhere in the City of Hope, Arkansas, without first securing a permit therefor, and complying with all the provisions of this ordinance, in addition to all other ordinances of the City of Hope, Arkansas, now or hereafter in effect, and must also have a valid permit duly renewed from time to time as provided by this ordinance.

SECTION 3: The procedure for securing the said permit in the first instance shall be as follows:

(a) The application for said permit shall be made in writing to the City Council of the City of Hope, Arkansas, and shall be signed by the person who claims to be the proposed operator of the said trailer court or location of the said place for tents, trailers, and other types of portable shelter; and the application shall state the legal description of the lot or lots on which it is proposed to locate and have the said trailer court or location for said tents, trailers, or other types of portable shelter, and the name of the owner of the land; and if the applicant is other than the land owner, then a copy of the lease agreement of said owner and said applicant shall be attached to the said application.

(b) The application shall list the name and address of such and every land owner and also each and every occupant of any dwelling or premises or house located within 450 feet in each and every direction from the outside boundary of the location of the said trailer park or place on which it is proposed to locate said tent, trailer, or other types of portable shelter.

(c) The application shall state the maximum number of tents, trailers, and other types of portable shelter proposed to be erected, parked, or housed or located on the said premises, and the number of sewer connections, for said premises and shall state the distance to the said sanitary sewer system and shall state the source of water supply, and shall state any and all other facts going to show the sanitary conditions of the proposed trailer park or location.

(d) The said application shall remain on file with the City Clerk of the City of Hope, Arkansas, and the notice of said application shall be published in some newspaper published in and having a bona fide circulation in the City of Hope, Arkansas, once a week for two weeks; and the notice shall state the date and time the City Council will be asked to hear the application. The applicant must pay the cost of said publication.

(e) Should a protest be filed at any time before said hearing by any of the land owners or occupants of any dwelling or premises or house located within 450 feet in any direction from the outside boundaries of the said trailer park or place on which it is proposed to locate any tent, trailer, or other types of portable shelter, then the Council shall set the matter down for hearing. If at the hearing, a majority of the land owners or a majority of the occupants of the dwellings or premises or houses within 450 feet of the proposed site should protest or offer objection, then the said permit shall not be granted. Should the number protesting be less than a majority, in any instance, then the City Council may grant or refuse a permit, as it may deem proper, or continue the hearing for consideration.

SECTION 4: Any person, firm or corporation now having in the City of Hope, Arkansas, or proposing to have in the City of Hope, Arkansas, any trailer camp or other place for the location of any tent, trailer, or other type of portable shelter, shall be required to comply with this ordinance, as well as any person, firm, or corporation hereafter proposing or desiring to have any trailer camp or other place for the location of tents, trailers, or other types of portable shelter.

SECTION 5: It shall be unlawful for any person, firm, or corporation to have any trailer camp or location for any tent, trailer, or other type of portable shelter without having adequate number of showers, lavatories and commodes connected with the sanitary sewer system of the City of Hope, Arkansas.

SECTION 6: In addition to the provisions for the permit as hereinbefore stated, any person seeking to obtain a permit for the operation of, after obtaining the permit continuing the operation of, any trailer camp, or other place for the location of any tent, trailer, or other type of portable shelter, must at all times comply with all the regulations of the State Board of Health and the City Board of Health, in addition to the requirements of this ordinance.

SECTION 7: Renewal permit: every trailer camp site or location for any tent, trailer, or other type of portable shelter shall be subject to inspection every three months after the original permit shall have been issued, and a renewal permit must be obtained every three months, and the renewal permit can be obtained only by furnishing to the City of Hope, Arkansas, a certificate from the State Board of Health and the City Board of Health that all regulations of the State Board of Health and the City Board of Health are being complied with. Failure to obtain the renewal permit shall cause the trailer camp site or location for tents, trailers, or other types of portable shelter to be abated as a nuisance.

SECTION 8: Any person, firm or corporation violating any provision of this ordinance shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof, shall be fined in any sum not less than TEN DOLLARS nor more than ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS, and may also be imprisoned not more than thirty days, for each offense, and each day or night of said violation shall constitute a separate offense.

SECTION 9: This ordinance is cumulative of the building ordinance and all other ordinances of the City of Hope, Arkansas.

SECTION 10: Should any section, paragraph, sentence, clause or phrase of this ordinance be declared unconstitutional or invalid for any reason, the remainder of said ordinance shall not be effected in any way.

SECTION 11: WHEREAS, The arrival of a considerable number of transients in the City of Hope, Arkansas, has created an acute sanitary condition, and unless the matters are immediately regulated, tents, trailers, and other types of portable shelter, without sewer connections and without sanitary arrangements will come into existence in the City of Hope, Arkansas, and the health of the entire community will be endangered, and there is a necessity for the remedying of this situation immediately; now, therefore, an emergency is hereby declared, and this ordinance being necessary for the public health, peace, and safety, an emergency is hereby declared, and this ordinance shall take effect and be in full force and effect from and after its passage.

Summer Bathing Suit Problems

Suit Your Figure or Trim Your Figure to the Suit

By BETTY CLARKE
AP Feature Service Writer
Bathing suit problems are the same in August as they are in May or June. You may be buying at the bargain counters at this stage of the season, but wherever you buy, and whenever, you have the same requirements.

You want a suit to fit your figure or you must trim your figure to fit the suit you want.

Three things will help you wear the suit you desire: (1) stretching for a summer waist-line, (2) bumping for better hip-line, and (3) some massage for thinning your thighs.

And the best exercises may be pushing yourself away from your table sooner. You can get your vitamins without an over-abundance of vitamins, you know.

Nor is it impossible to fit your suit to your figure. Midriff modes must expose slim stomachs only if they adorn a bathing beauty. Long straight suits simply make a slender girl look slender. It's a one-piece suit for most matrons.

Extremely low-back cuts reveal beautiful backs beautifully, but mar the appearance of the girl with rump, just below-the-shoulder bumps or a larger-than-she-wishes waistline.

If you don't want to go near the water, you can choose a chic costume for a beach outfit. Better still, you can prefer a playsuit (maybe with a skirt over the shorts if your thighs are thicker than they should be). If you really swim, you probably have a habit of picking suits that are tight in weight, big enough, but made to stay on.

The Optimist Says His Prayers

ROCK HILL, S. C.—(P)—Boys at a camp for underprivileged were asked to make sentence prayers at bedtime. The first returned thanks for his baseball bat, another for his baseball glove, another for his mitt and so on. The last little fellow had not shared in the last equipment but he promised: "Lord, I haven't got a prayer tonight but I'll be sure to have one tomorrow night."

Gospel Amid Ruins

LONDON—(P)—When church attendance fell, Rev. Frank Moore, vicar of Welling, fitted his car with an amplifier and toured his parish holding "church services" and is "astounded" at his success.

Trailer Count

Automobile trailer inhabitants with no permanent homes were counted as residents wherever they happened to be when the 1940 census was taken.

Preview of the CADS Plans

Capt. Gill Robb Wilson Heads Civil Air Defense

By JACK STINNETT
WASHINGTON — Before this dries, you are going to be hearing a lot about the CADS. I mean the Civil Air Defense Services.

A national committee headed by Capt. Gill Robb Wilson, who is also president of the National Aeronautics Association, has had plans for the CADS in the works for quite a while. For some reason the national defense people haven't turned on the green light for the CADS, but it's coming.

I saw a preview of the plans the other day. The underlying idea is to organize civilian aviation for an emergency.

The Captain Wilson, writing in National Aeronautics magazine, gave a better description of civilian aviation in the United States than I can. "What is it? It is 82,000 certified pilots. It is 50,000 student pilots. It is 25,000 mechanics and airport personnel. It is 3,000,000 model builders. It is a light plane model industry. It is 22,000 certificated civil aircraft. It is 2,000 airports and landing fields outside those serving military and scheduled flying." The list goes on, including all the magazines, journals, and national and local flying organizations.

This is the backlog out of which civilian defense proposals to create the CADS, with a "Whing" in every state, composed of flights, squadrons and groups in the smaller centers.

New Certificates

The first step would be to have the Civilian Aeronautics Administration reclassify all airmen's certificates. The new certificates would require proof of citizenship, oath of allegiance to the United States, and such other identification as fingerprints and photographs. And the first job of the CADS would be to see that that one took off or tightened a nut on an air jalopy without one of the certificates.

From there on, the CADS would take over the job of guarding radio range stations and the 2,000 airports which, not being military or scheduled airline airports, would not ordinarily be subject to military guard. The CADS also would learn how to make these airports unsuitable for enemy use in case of invasion.

A courier service with men capable of flying everything from bombers and transports to messages in a capsule, would be organized.

A highway traffic patrol would be established in every area where congestion might occur, the CADS patrolling such areas and notifying police and military authorities immediately by radio as to where jams were piling up.

Restricted industrial and defense areas would be patrolled constantly.

With the army and navy personnel tied up completely in defense training and maneuvers, all disaster relief work where airplanes are necessary would be taken over by the civilian flyers.

They would also assist in search for missing military aircraft and give aid to pilots and crews forced down in remote areas.

Would Have to Keep Up

In order to accomplish all this, the CADS would have to keep their flight training and mechanics skill right up to snuff. The flyers would have to know every inch of terrain in their defense areas as well as that in any nearby areas into which they might be called. They would have to know something about military air maneuvers, types of planes, and a dozen other things with which the ordinary civilian pilot has only a slight speaking acquaintance at present.

A few areas, impatient at government delays, already have organized Wings along this line, notably New Jersey, Alabama, and the Island, where Roger Wolfe Kahn, noted sportsman pilot, is taking a lead in forming the group.

With the advice and under authority of state and local defense military authorities, these groups are ready to take the air according to Captain Wilson, hundreds more will follow the minute they get the green light.

What Made Him Mad

JACKSONVILLE, N. C.—(P)—Guy Lockamy's automobile was stolen ten minutes after he had parked it. But what made Guy jump mad was that the fellow who swiped the car drove right past him—and he didn't recognize his own car.

There are 1339 railroad tunnels with a total length of 320 miles in the United States.

Zanies Zip From Strippers to Stars

HOLLYWOOD — The offstage quality that I like best about Bud Abbott and Lou Costello is their all-around enthusiasm and frank enjoyment of their current triumphs. Too often, when somebody shoots into top-notch stardom, he accepts it with a smugness indicating that wealth and prominence are a natural destiny and somewhat overdue.

These two ex-burlesque comedians, although hampered by modesty, tickled silly with all the things that have happened to them since their brief part in a feeble flicker last year won a recall to star in pictures at Universal. "Buck Privates" set a series of such astonishing records that "Oh, Charlie," made before the army film was released, was held up for refurbishing. Retitled "Hold That Ghost," it's going out on the heels of "In the Navy."

Costello and Abbott now are making a dual march western called "Ride 'Em Cowboy," and after hopping over to Metro for "Rio Rita," in which they'll have the former Wheeler and Woolsey parts, they return for another national defense comedy. The latter will deal mostly with aviation and is named "Up in the Air."

Rues to Riches
All this is quite a change from their lives among the strippers and grinders and smoky theaters on the burly circuits. It's better, too, than a decade ago when Abbott lost his shirt as a theater owner and Costello, starved to death as an occasional laborer and stunt man. He admits he's going to get a lot of satisfaction returning in stellar style to M-G-M where once he performed menial chores.

The plump funnyman also is cherishing a plan to drive back east, retracing his original hitchhike route. This time he'll go over the roads in a $3000 car hauling a $5000 trailer. Abbott has a trailer, too, and there is constant squabbling between the pair about which Pullmanlike conveyance is the more luxurious.

Abbott has only his own family for which he obays gifts but he has been pleased to heap milk and diamonds on his wife, an ex-chorine whose original engagement ring contained a stone so small that it scarcely could be seen. It looked fine to her, though.

Costello is lucky in having a mother and sister back in Patterson, N. J. His father was Italian, and his mother is Irish. She also has high blood pressure and a talent for fainting every time her son brings her some little token such as a chauffeur limousine or a diamond bracelet. Last Christmas he gave his sister, Marie, an elegant silver fox coat. She fainted, was out cold for an hour, and then cried for six hours.

Lou May Sob
I should warn you now that some Chaplinesque pathos is being planned for these champions of low comedy. Arthur Lubin, their director, says that Costello can evoke tears as easily as belly-laughs, besides, a few sad scenes would provide a change of pace.

All such speculations take little notice of Bud Abbott, the straight man. He never tells a joke. Presumably he'd never have to do any sobbing, either, but there is no likelihood that Costello ever will work by himself. He'd be helpless. Quite a lot of people in show business believe a straight man's job is harder than a comic's. Costello does, anyway, and it's his opinion that counts.

The right clothes, they do say, will win, horses being critical and snobbish beasts.

Clothes and the horse are closely interrelated at hunt meets, race meets and horse shows. Especially hunt meets, where you as a spectator are bound by custom to appear thus and so or lose face.

If the event has a country setting, you'd wear conservative sports things—a suit of tweed or shantung, according to the weather, a tailored shirt, calfskin brogues, hosey not too sheer. Have your hair neat and netted. A felt or cloth hat matching your suit is better than a turban. No flustered velvets allowed. For gaiety, wear a pair of jeweled clip.

Race tracks this summer are more dressy than they've ever been, following European tradition.

Horse shows generally call for the same sports things you'd wear at a hunt meet. But the very social big game events are occasions for dress as formal and diamonds as dazzling as at the opera.

When it comes to actually riding a horse, the rules are different. You can't wear a top hat, and you can't wear a tuxedo. You can't wear a top hat, and you can't wear a tuxedo.

horses, here are some "never, never" rules:
Never ride to hounds without first consulting the hunt master about dress regulations. Write a note.
Never ride in slacks—unless it's barback around the barnyard.
Never ride in a fancy vest instead of a coat. Avoid loud, fox-head scarfs.
Never ride without a hat. You may fall on your head.
Never struggle with a four-in-hand if a stock can be worn.
Never have riding clothes too immaculate, too stiff and shining new.

Dressing for the Horses

They Say Horses Are Snobbish, Critical Beasts

Test your knowledge of correct social usage by answering the following questions, then checking against the authoritative answers below:

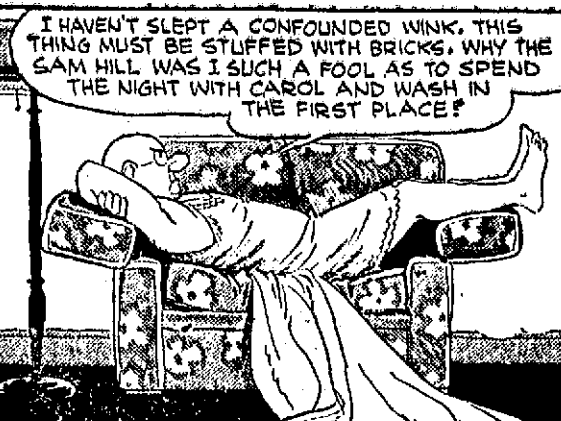

1. If a friend invites you to her home to meet a house guest is it all right to give an excuse for not accepting her invitation? "It's just too hot to get dressed?"
2. Is it a good idea to spend a good part of an evening showing guests your hobby, unless you know they are also interested in it?
3. If the hostess, at an informal meal served out-of-doors, tells her guests to pick up their friend chicken in their fingers if they wish is it all right for them to do so?
4. Is it correct for a doctor's wife, when speaking to friends, to refer to her husband as "the doctor's"?
5. Should a letter written to a doctor's wife be addressed "Mrs. Dr. Smith?"

What would you do if—
Your wife or your husband makes a mistake in grammar or mispronounces a word, when talking with friends.
(a) Correct him (or her)?
(b) Let the mistake pass?
Answers
1. No. That sounds as though you aren't willing to put yourself out in the least for a friend.
2. No.
3. Yes.
4. No. She should call him John.
5. No. Mrs. John Smith.
Best "What Would You Do" solution—(b).

Pacific Crisis Puts a "Rush" Ticket on Panama Canal's New Emergency Exits

By MILTON BONNER
NEA Service Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON—Japan's warlike activity in the Far East points a sharp finger at Uncle Sam's sore defense thumb—the one-ocean navy. In doing so, it dramatically argues the need for speed on the new set of locks which the U. S. is starting to build in the Panama Canal—that 40-mile thread without which a one-ocean navy cannot hope to sew up the defense of two oceans.

The shush-shush that marks the start of this third set of locks is in startling contrast to the sissboom-ballyhoo that accompanied the beginning of American work on the Panama Canal in 1904. In those happy days many photographs were issued, showing the progress of the work. Today no photographs of any kind have been allowed since preliminary operations ended.

Present locks Are Too Small
Before Hitler, Mussolini and the Japanese began throwing their weight about, the Panama Canal authorities figured that the present locks would take care of all ordinary commercial business until about 1960. So it was estimated that about 1950 they would start in a leisurely way on a new set of locks.

Only the navy was dissatisfied. The present lock chambers are 1000 feet long, 110 wide and about 41 deep. They are too small to let ships like the Queen Mary, Queen Elizabeth and Normandie go through. By the same token, they make a tight squeeze for the biggest battleships and aircraft carriers the American navy has.

On account of the dimensions of the lock chambers, the U. S. Navy has to cut down the size of the under surface protective blisters it has on its big ships.

Congress passed the act for a new set of locks and the President signed the measure August 11, 1939.

The purpose of the new locks are fourfold:
1—When completed, and until 1960 at least, they will give the U. S. Navy an exclusive channel for passage of its ships between the Atlantic and the Pacific.

2—As the lock chambers will be 12000 long, 140 feet wide and 45 feet deep, it is believed they will be able to take care of not only battleships weighing 45,000 tons, but of possible giants up to 100,000 tons.

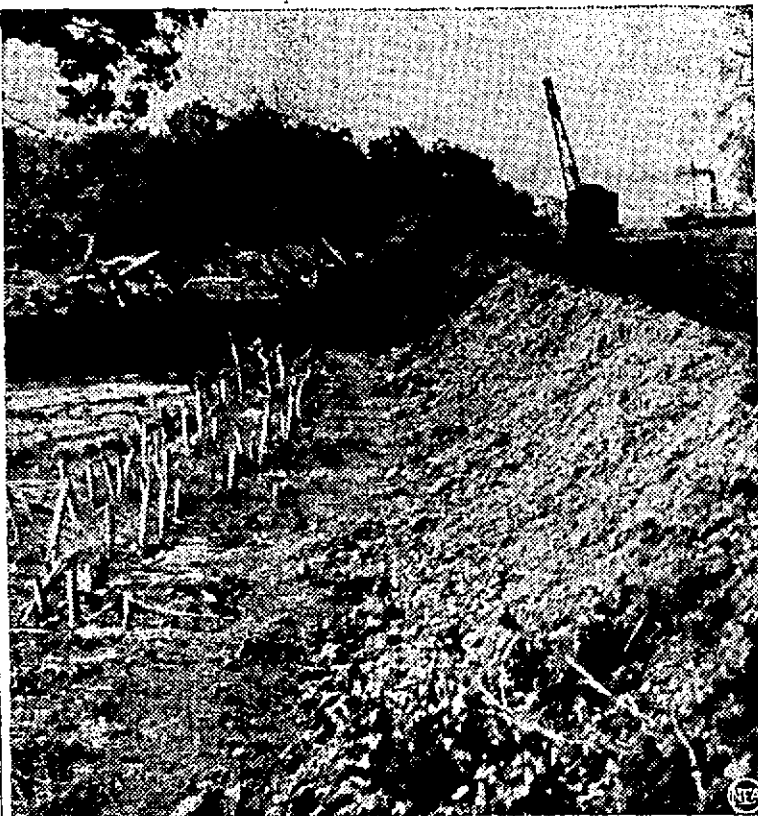

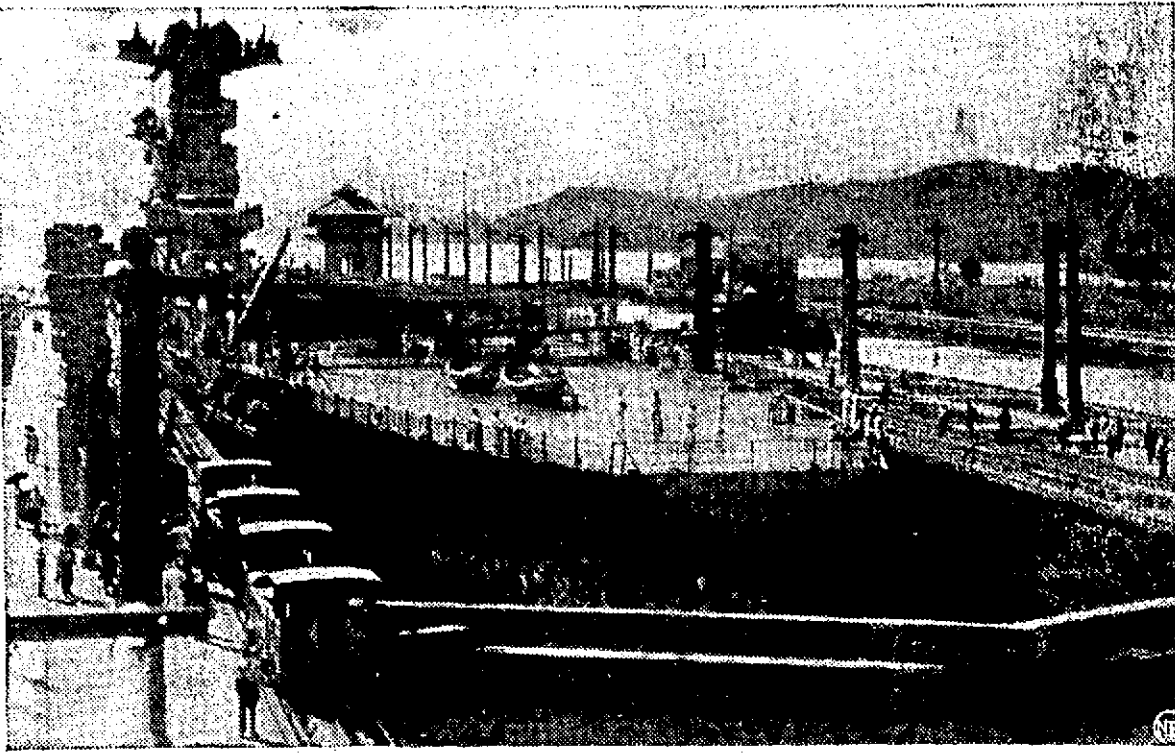

3—When completed, every two years when the present locks get a three-month overhauling, they will afford a channel for commercial traffic.

4—They will give good assurance that in the event of war, America will be able to use this all-important and vital water highway for its navy.

Army and navy authorities say the present canal is reasonably safe from attack by surface vessels and from land attack. Its dangers are from enemy air attack and from sabotage. A lucky hit by a bomb tossed from an airplane might put one or both of the present locks out of business for some time. Sabotage might be attempted by explosion from a ship in transit in the canal, sinking the ship or having it ram the locks.

The present sets of locks are side by side, separated only by a concrete wall. The proposed new set of locks at Gatun, Pedro Miguel and Miraflores will be some distance away—a quarter of a mile on the Pacific side and a half mile on the Atlantic side. The new locks will be connected with the main canal channels by 7 1-2 miles of bypass channels.

When completed, they will enable the fleet to pass through the Canal in 35 hours as against the present 45. While the Canal authorities make no promises, it is hoped to have the new locks all complete and in working order by 1945-46.

The original Panama Canal, with its two sets of locks, cost $144,000,000. To build the new third set of locks will cost $277,000,000. Altogether the original canal involved excavating about 210,000,000 cubic yards. Contracts already let for the new locks include one calling for the excavation of 12,000,000 cubic yards of rock and dirt for the new Gatun locks structure, south approach channel, at a cost of $9,000,000.

A second contract was for the excavation of 28,000,000 cubic yards of rock and dirt for the Miraflores lock structure, new Pedro Miguel lock structure and Pedro Miguel approach channel for $22,500,000.

Bids are now being received for supplying and delivering in the course of three years 6,000,000 barrels of cement and for processing 12,000,000 tons of concrete aggregate.

To make the Panama Canal safe from attack, canal officials have been installing special equipment in the locks to prevent detonation of time bombs or mines. They have also done some other bomb-proofing work. Guards are put on ships and there is rigid inspection to see that there are no bombs or mines aboard.

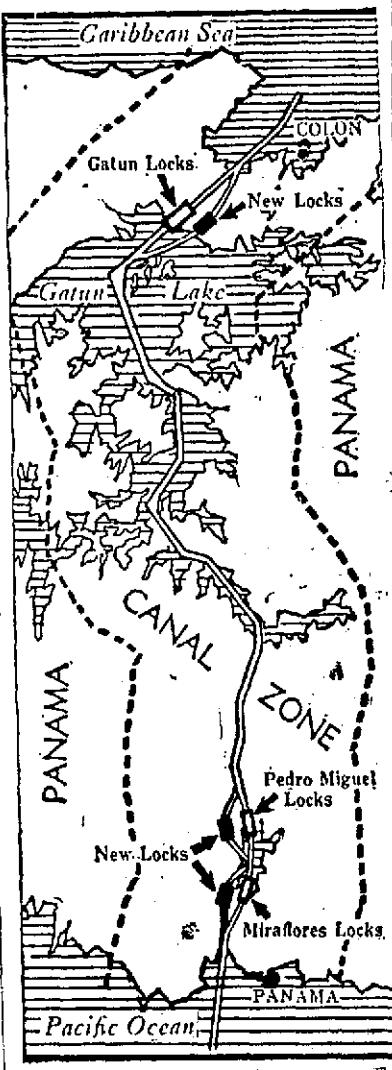

Protective Measures Near Completion
The army has installed a very complete protective system of anti-aircraft guns and coast artillery to ward off war fleet and airplane attacks. The navy has also been busy with submarine and air forces.

For reasons that are obvious, much is the word about details of the many millions that are being spent to perfect the protection of the Panama Canal zone. But here is just one typical item culled at random from open hearings by Congressional committees:

For specified protective works, the sums of $14,117,000 and $4,670,000.

While the new canal locks are not expected to be completed for several years, the bulk of the new army and navy protective works are expected to be finished late this year and early next.

The Panama Canal's new locks will be 30 feet wider than the present ones, which, as the photo of the aircraft carrier Lexington show are a tight squeeze for the Navy's bigger ships. At left is part of new construction work near present Gatun locks. Map at right locates new locks and by-passes.

Conservation of the Capital

River Cities Are Highly Vulnerable to Air Attacks

By JACK STINNETT
WASHINGTON—Capital conservation.

The night bombing of Moscow is one more link in the chain of proof that cities which straddle rivers are highly vulnerable to blitzkriegs from the air. The Moscow river winds through the Soviet capital and, like a twisted arrow, points the way for enemy bombers.

Check over the cities that have had the worst night bombings in this war and you will find that nearly all of them are split by rivers or curve around harbors.

The point isn't that industrial centers or invasion bases are always located on water. The point is that you can black out man-made lights, but you can't black out the lights that shine from the skies. Just as the stars in the heavens led navigators of other generations to their destinations, so now stars reflected in water lead carloads of death from above to the points the wish to strike.

Sense of Rumor

Before announcement of the freezing of Japanese assets was 15 hours old, I had two readers ask why the government again chose to close the barn door after loudly braying to the horse that such action was coming.

In this instance, at least, the government was not at fault. The first report, rumor, hint, or whatever you choose to call it, that the government might take that kind of retaliatory action against Japan's occupation of Indo-China came from England, not Washington.

The consensus here is that London didn't really know about it at all, but was just hopefully guessing that Washington might do what Tokyo already feared—freeze Japanese investments in this country.

In spite of the fact that Japan was not asleep, as evidenced by its earlier order, holding all American-bound ships in port, the premature rumor did cause some action. On the morning before the freezing order was issued, I bumped into a Japanese acquaintance coming out of the bank.

"Well," I said, "I guess you have been cleaning out your account?"

He laughed and said, "Oh yes. I know what you mean. But I have just been drawing a little expense money." Then he pulled his fist out of his pocket and there was a roll of bills that would have choked Jonah's whale.

"What you need," I said, "is a conveyance."

"Oh yes," he said, laughing again. "Today, in the United States, many Japanese need conveyance."

Dogs in Army

The Remount Service, which ordinarily supplies the army with horses and mules, has a new rider now—for huskies. Comes the report from New Hampshire that the service there is getting Eskimo dogs ready for the early snows, probably in Greenland and Iceland.

The army has used huskies before on Alaskan patrols—but never to the extent they will be necessary in Iceland and Greenland.

Two phases of the husky training are innovations. There being no snow in New Hampshire now, the trainers devised a "sled" on wheels, with constant-pressure brakes that simulate the pull of a sled through snow. The reason for the other innovation is a little more obscure. They are training the lead dogs to obey the commands "gee" and "haw". Perhaps they are planning to recruit the dog sled handlers from the ranks of the mule-skinners.

WE, THE WOMEN

Squabblers Are the Death of the Party

By RUTH MILLETT

About seven out of ten married couples are Squabblers. That would not matter to anyone if they could do all their squabbling at home and cut it out when they are out in company. But it is never that way.

Squabblers get so used to picking at each other, contradicting each other, and making an issue out of such small things as whether to leave a party at twelve or one, that they don't even realize when they ARE squabbling.

But everyone else does. The bickering of just one couple is enough genial people uncomfortable, and kill to make a whole roomful of congenial people uncomfortable.

If you are married, check up on yourself and see if you and your husband are squabblers. You are if—

He starts to tell a story and you say, "No, it wasn't that way. Don't you remember—"

Signs of a Squabbler
When you are restless and anxious to go somewhere, he says, "For heaven's sake, can't you relax for five minutes?"

One or the other of you ends a mild dispute with bitter words.

You can never agree on when to leave a party.

Arriving at a party late, one of you blames it on the other, instead of the innocent party shoudering half the blame.

Either of you ridicules the other's ideas, on any subject.

One of you complains, even in a half-joking voice, about the other's faults and shortcomings.

If you suspect you and your husband may be classed as Squabblers

MacArthur of the Philippines

Lt. Gen. Carries on the Family Tradition

Lt. Gen. Arthur MacArthur helped clear the Spaniards out of Manila in 1898. Later he defended Manila against the forces of Aguinaldo, and still later he served two years as military governor of the Philippines.

Newest chapter in the story of the MacArthurs and the Philippines was started when President Roosevelt named Arthur MacArthur's son commander of combined U. S. and Filipino forces in the islands. The son is Douglas MacArthur, military adviser to the Philippine government since 1935.

The younger MacArthur, with the current rank of Lieutenant General, has in a period of 38 years held five different assignments in the Philippines, but there was time between these jobs for him to become best known to the American public as a dashing leader of doughboys in France and as an army chief of staff who insisted on modernization of U. S. armed forces.

His record in brief:
Born at Little Rock, Ark., 1880. . . . Graduated from West Point at head of his class in 1903. . . . Assigned to Philippines as an officer of engineers. . . . Aide to President Theodore Roosevelt. . . . Chief of staff, later division commander, 42nd (Tainbow) division in France. . . . Superintendent of West Point. . . . Commander of Manila district. . . . Commander Fourth corps area, Atlanta. . . . Commander Third corps area, Baltimore. . . . Commander Military District of Philippines. . . . Made army chief of staff with rank of full general, 1930. . . . Increased air corps, started mechanization. . . . Became military adviser to Philippines, 1935. . . . Asked for voluntary retirement from U. S. army, 1937. . . . Recalled to active service, July 26, 1941.

Whistle Stop on the Air Line
GLENNVILLE, W. Va.—(AP)—With a population of only 588 and the nearest railroad 12 miles away, Glennville boasts of being the smallest town in the nation receiving direct airmail service twice a day. The airplane, flying over the pickup point, drops the mail destined for Glennville, and with a hook attached to a rope, picks up the bag containing outgoing mail.

Good Plan
Trinidad puts its destitute families on little plots of ground and teaches them to grow their next meals, instead of putting them on relief.

BARBS

Some people are fenced off from success by their own railing.

Russia can't yet estimate the amount of German motorized equipment captured. Perhaps they should just say, "Thanks a million."

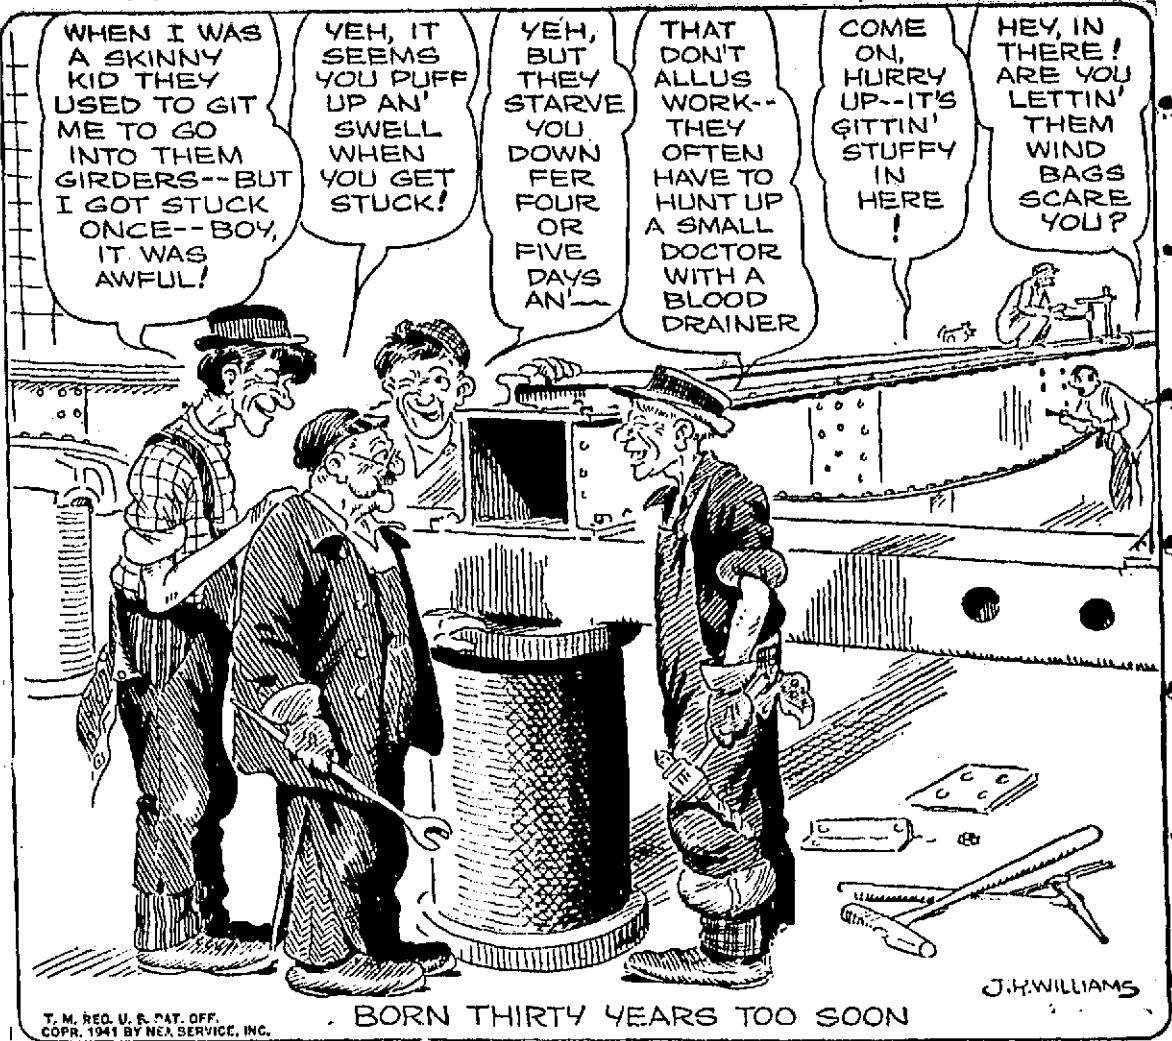

In lots of cases an "old flame" is one who has been told to go to blazes.

Three Grand Rapids, Mich., policemen were bitten while attempting to arrest a woman. That's putting teeth into the law.

No one appreciates the perils of motoring like the pedestrian.

In your friends' minds, make it a point of being as courteous and gracious to each other—at least when you are out in company—as you are to other people. You'll be surprised how much higher you'll rate as guests.

War Games Will Prove Army Isn't Ready

WASHINGTON—From now until the end of November, Army units all over the country will be up to their ears in chiggers and up to their necks in maneuvers, the biggest that United States forces have ever staged, costing about $24 million. Nearly a million men will participate—230,000 of the Third Army in the Benuegard, La., area from Aug. 16-30, 470,000 of the First and Fourth Armies at Beauregard in September, 302,000 of the Second and Third Armies in the Carolinas in November.

Maneuvers so far have been piddlin' little things of divisions or corps, a mere 15,000 to 100,000 men. Now the full armies swing into action in the biggest war games the country has seen since the War Between the States, as there was nothing like these during the World War. There wasn't time.

While every effort will be made to make these maneuvers as real as possible, including the use of smoke bombs for mines and sound effects achieved by playing phonograph records of dive bombers over a loud speaker system, there will still be a lot of phony stuff, and there will probably be a lot of yelling about these aspects. For in spite of the best efforts of the MTP experts—the mobilization training program staffs—these maneuvers will be far from blitzkrieg.

The Real Thing, But—
Participation of aircraft will be limited. There will be few if any parachute troops. All the ground forces will have honest-to-God rifles and full quotas of machine guns, and they will fire blank cartridges as long as the supply holds out, as the munitions plants are too busy making the real things to bother making more blanks.

In the line of field artillery, there will be 75's but practically no 90's, no 105's, 155's or any of the bigger guns. There will be almost 100 per cent equipment in the way of the smaller mortars, but very few of the larger sizes. Anti-tank guns and anti-aircraft guns will be missing.

As for pauper divisions, the Army will use what it has, but they won't be completely equipped. The light tanks will be out in force, but heavy tanks won't be up to quota by any manner of means, and neither will the heavier trucks nor motorcycles.

Army headquarters doesn't want to get very specific about numbers on hand or shortages in these various categories. The shortages particularly come under the heading of military secrets. But wherever there are shortages, they are going to be apparent through the use of dummy guns, stove pipes for mortars, gaspines on wheels for anti-tank guns, and so on.

There will probably be considerable squawk about all these dummy weapons, in spite of the fact that the Army has been doing its best for months to explain that the Germans trained with cardboard tanks before Hitler and that these shortages are inevitable when you jump an army from 265,000 to 1,400,000 practically overnight.

Drum Beat Out Facts
Army has always been undecided, in the past, whether to blush in shame and try to hide its shortages, or whether to come out boldly and admit its equipment left considerable to be desired. General Drum, in command of the up-to-the-minute biggest maneuvers in the New York state area during the last few years, has been one of the officers supporting the idea that the country should be fully informed about how lousy its Army materiel really was, in the hope that it would stir up people and particularly congressmen to demand more money for defense. It didn't work, but it was a good idea.

Army public relations branch has been doing its best this spring and summer, to let the country know what to expect in the way of shortage of arms in these fall maneuvers. There will be dummy weapons in almost every unit, and umpires with white flags meaning stop, blue flags meaning you're wiped out, will be all over the landscapes.

What it will all prove is simply that the Army isn't ready for war. Certain task forces, perhaps yes. But the Army as a whole hasn't the equipment and its men, good as they may be, simply haven't had all the training it takes to make an Army that will stack up against the professional and fire-baptized fighters of Europe and Asia. And the more every one realizes these shortcomings, the better off we'll be.
